Columbia Union School District Homeschool Program

A home-based study program

Now Enrolling For 20-21

What is homeschool?

The Columbia Homeschool Program is a free, public, home-based study program for students in grades K-8. It is designed as a collaborative educational program between parents, students, and credentialed teachers that emphasizes student achievement.

How does homeschool work?

The staff in the Columbia Homeschool Program partners with parents to develop individualized learning plans for their children that meet state standards while providing flexibility. Our homeschool teachers provide one-on-one support to parents and students in the program. The program seeks to assist parents as teachers and students as life-learners.

Who can use the homeschool program?

Students who live in Tuolumne and surrounding counties may enroll in this program.

Our Mission

The mission of the Columbia Homeschool Program is to provide a quality family-school collaborative educational program where the students are encouraged to strive for success in a manner that fosters positive personal growth, academic achievement, cultural understanding, and social responsibility.

We achieve this by...

- Providing experienced, credentialed teachers and curriculum
- Monitoring, assessing, and evaluating student achievement
- Offering a flexible schedule and multiple curriculum choices
- Partnering with parents to develop an individualized learning plan for their children
- Endorsing a variety of outside activity choices to supplement school work
- Providing off campus meeting options for flexibility in immunization requirements.
- Allowing student participation in our sports and enrichment programs.
